

- 8                   whereby, upon rotation of said loop about said loop axis, said loop
- 9   moves from a location within said cannula to a location extending through said cutout.